NFLRA Announces Ratification of New CBA for Replay Officials
Agreement runs through May 2027

WASHINGTON – The NFL Referees Association is pleased to announce that a new Collective Bargaining Agreement for Replay Officials has been ratified, effective as of December 22, 2021.

“I want to compliment all of the Replay Officials for their dedication to continue working through most of this season without a CBA,” said NFLRA President Carl Paganelli. “The final agreement recognizes the contributions and key role that Replay Officials provide on each and every play.”

The negotiations stretched out over eight months and focused on compensation and benefits that were previously not provided to Replay Officials.

“This one took a lot of time and effort, and we couldn’t have gotten it done without the input of Replay Officials Mike Chase, Paul Weidner and Roddy Ames, and of course the legal guidance provided by Mike Arnold,” said NFLRA Executive Director Scott Green.

The new CBA runs through May 31, 2027.
